بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم

রাষ্ট্রপতি

PRESIDENT
PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF BANGLADESH
BANGABHABAN, DHAKA

10 Kartik 1433
26 October 2026

Message

I am delighted to learn that the Bangladesh Society of Colon and Rectal Surgeons (BSCRS) is organizing its annual international conference, BSCRS Congress 2026, in Dhaka on 26 and 27 October 2026. On this occasion, I extend my heartfelt greetings and best wishes to the organizers, participants, distinguished guests, and international faculty members.

Colorectal diseases pose a significant public health concern requiring timely diagnosis, specialized treatment, and skilled surgical care. It is encouraging that advanced colorectal procedures are now being successfully performed in Bangladesh, with our surgeons demonstrating growing expertise in line with international standards and reducing the need for treatment abroad.

As medical science advances, modern healthcare must remain accessible, affordable, safe, and patient-centered, particularly for the poor and vulnerable. Advanced surgical expertise should always be guided by professional ethics, empathy, compassion, and respect for patients.

The Government of Bangladesh remains committed to strengthening the public health system to make it more inclusive, people-oriented, accessible, and responsive by improving the quality of healthcare services, enhancing specialized care, developing skilled health professionals, and expanding access to modern medical technologies. Cooperation among the Government, professional societies, academic institutions, and healthcare providers will further strengthen this effort.

International conferences bring together scientific minds, professionals, and experts to exchange ideas, share experiences, and discuss emerging practices. Such interaction promotes professional excellence and advancement. I am confident that this Congress will benefit our young surgeons and contribute to the further development of colorectal surgery in Bangladesh.

I appreciate the efforts of BSCRS in advancing specialized surgical care, professional excellence, and medical education in the country.

I wish BSCRS Congress 2026 every success.

Mirza Fakhrul Islam Alamgir