EDITOR'S NOTE

It is my pleasure to forward the 30th volume of the Bangladesh Journal of Sugarcane. The volume contains problem oriented research results and recommendations to overcome constraints of sugarcane cultivation in the country as well as elsewhere in the world. The major contributors of the volume are from this institute; however, authors from other organizations have also contributed.

On behalf of the editorial board, I thank the contributors of 30th volume of the Bangladesh Journal of Sugarcane for their enthusiasm and continued support to the Journal. Bangladesh Journal of Sugarcane is an ideal journal for the scientists working on sugarcane and auxiliary sugar crops throughout the world.

We are interested in bringing out some positive reforms to accommodate quality reviewed papers and research results on sugar crops. Further responses from relevant scientists are also expected.

I believe that the articles of the volume would help minimizing farmers field oriented sugarcane production and management problems. This is indeed to find out ways and means of ensuring that our research output is ready to face the new economic challenges. This will benefit the farmers, students, teachers, scientists and interested persons by increasing the yield of cane and sugar and will also enhance productivity in achieving self-sufficiency in sugar and gur production in Bangladesh.
