Terms of Reference (TOR) for making & Broadcasting of TV and Radio program on Noise Pollution

A. Background:

The use of mechanical/electrical equipment in human daily activities produces a wide variety of noises. Some noise levels reach a point where they adversely affect human health. Excessive noise can cause headaches, hearing loss, irritability, loss of concentration, insomnia and many other diseases. Children and the elderly, especially those with heart disease, are at the highest risk. Therefore, noise pollution is identified as a silent killer.

Rapid urbanization, industrialization, abnormal increase in the number of mechanical vehicles, noise pollution in the country has increased at an excessive rate. To control noise pollution, the government has issued "Noise Pollution Control Rules 2006". Although various agencies are involved in the implementation/implementation of these rules, it is not possible to implement the rules effectively. Officials/employees of all law enforcement agencies are not informed about the Noise Pollution Control Rules 2006 and there is no noise level measuring device for that reason noise pollution control needs to build at the community level and an effective way needs to be devised.

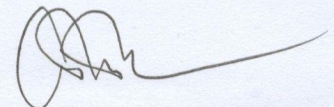

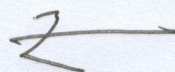

To create public awareness about noise pollution and its effects, there is a need to increase public awareness for proper implementation of "Noise Pollution Control Rules 2006". That is why media play an important role. It will be possible to increase public awareness about noise pollution by broadcasting a series of programs on television. For this, consulting firms will be appointed for the production and promotion of television programs.
