PREFACE

Microfinance has long played a vital role in the development trajectory of Bangladesh, functioning both as a financial instrument, a mechanism for social mobility, and an institutional response to the structural exclusion of low-income households from formal credit markets. Over the past five decades, the sector has grown from a pioneering field experiment into one of the most extensive ones, reshaping both the economic landscape and the policy discourse on poverty reduction in Bangladesh.

As of June 2025, across all institutional categories, MRA-licensed Microfinance Institutions (MFIs), Grameen Bank, government-run agencies, and scheduled banks operating microfinance windows, the sector collectively serves 76.70 million members, of whom 46.74 million are active borrowers. Total loan outstanding stands at BDT 2,134.96 billion, with annual loan disbursement reaching BDT 3,189.2 billion, reflecting both the depth of credit penetration and a high portfolio turnover ratio that speaks to the predominantly short-term, working-capital nature of microfinance lending in Bangladesh. Savings mobilization, at BDT 1,105.57 billion, represents a substantial domestically generated resource base - a feature that distinguishes Bangladesh's microfinance model from donor-dependent variants observed elsewhere. From the perspective of economic engagement, these figures represent not merely institutional output, but the aggregate outcome of millions of individual credit-access decisions made in conditions of imperfect information, constrained household budgets, and limited collateral — precisely the market context that microfinance was theorized to address.

This publication traces the historical evolution of microfinance in Bangladesh through the establishment of the Microcredit Regulatory Authority (MRA) under the Microcredit Regulatory Authority Act, 2006, with a focus on MRA's regulatory achievements, ongoing initiatives, and its pivotal role in facilitating and overseeing the sector. Core statistical data are organized across five parameters — the number of clients, the number of borrowers, the amount of loan disbursement, savings, and loan outstanding — covering 693 MRA-licensed MFIs, Grameen Bank, government agencies, and scheduled banks. This edition provides division- and district-level rankings of licensed MFIs, illuminating the geographic patterns of outreach and the institutional efforts to extend formal financial services to unbanked and economically marginal populations. To assess the performance of MFIs over time, the report includes a comparative analysis of operating cost ratios, risk-measuring ratios, fund composition, and size-wise distributions of loan outstanding and savings. Comparative analysis of operating cost ratios, risk-measuring ratios, fund composition structures, and size-wise distributions of loan outstanding and savings provides the empirical basis for evaluating institutional efficiency, portfolio quality, funding resilience, and long-term financial sustainability.

This volume is expected to be used as a statistical reference and an analytical resource for the diverse actors of the community engaged with microfinance in Bangladesh. I hope the data and analysis presented here will contribute not only to better-informed decision-making but also to a more theoretically sophisticated and empirically anchored discourse on the role of microfinance in Bangladesh's continuing development.

The figures contained in this report are not an endpoint. They are, rather, a structured observation of a sector in motion - one that continues to evolve in response to macroeconomic pressures, technological change, climate shocks, and the shifting aspirations of the communities it serves. It is upon this empirical foundation that future regulatory innovation, institutional reform, and scholarly inquiry must be built.

1.1 Microfinance of Bangladesh

Microfinance refers to a system of providing small, collateral-free loans and financial services to individuals who lack access to conventional banking facilities. It aims to empower low-income and unemployed individuals, enabling them to achieve self-sufficiency and improve their standard of living. As a vital tool for financial inclusion, microfinance helps marginalized and underserved communities, especially women, achieve social equity and empowerment, fostering sustainable development and economic progress.

The history of microfinance in Bangladesh is closely tied to the country's fight against poverty and its commitment to promoting financial inclusion. It dates back to the 1970s, following Bangladesh's independence, when poverty alleviation and economic development became pressing priorities.

Today, microfinance in Bangladesh is a vibrant sector, serving millions of low-income individuals and contributing significantly to poverty reduction, women's empowerment, and rural development. The success of Bangladesh's microfinance initiatives has inspired similar programs worldwide, earning the country recognition as a global leader in financial inclusion and poverty alleviation strategies.

1.2 Overview of the microfinance sector in Bangladesh

In Bangladesh, Microcredit Regulatory Authority (MRA) holds the exclusive mandate as the sole regulatory authority overseeing the microfinance sector. Its purview extends across the industry, except banks, Grameen bank and select government entities that follow their distinct regulatory frameworks. Presently, the microfinance landscape in the country boasts a diverse range of participants, including Microfinance Institutions (MFIs) licensed by the MRA, the renowned Grameen Bank, Banks, and government departments/institutions. In the fiscal year 2024-2025, these entities collectively impacted an astounding 76.70 million members, providing an array of services encompassing credit, deposits, and a plethora of social development initiatives.

These services play a crucial role in nurturing micro-entrepreneurship, elevating human resources, and fostering employment opportunities. Crucially, they have significantly contributed to Bangladesh's financial inclusion efforts, embracing a huge portion of the total population within their ambit. While MFIs dominate the microfinance sector, the contributions of other organizations remain noteworthy. These microfinance entities can be classified into four distinct categories:

- Microfinance Institutes (MFIs): As of June 2025, MRA has issued licenses to 900 institutions for conducting microfinance operations and cancelled licenses of 207 institutions due to non-compliance issues. Currently, 693 MFIs licensed by the MRA are working relentlessly to improve the living standard of more than 43.98 million members<sup>1</sup> and 33.68 million <sup>2</sup>borrowers in Bangladesh through their microcredit and social services of which 90% members are women.

1 Member: Number of active member accounts

2 Borrower: Number of active loan accounts

- In June 2025, the total loan outstanding and savings of the MFIs were BDT 1748.80 billion and BDT 799.32 billion respectively. In this FY 2024-2025 the total loan disbursement of MFIs was BDT 2770.38 billion, out of which 49.82% was in the agricultural sector for the marginal level. This expansive presence underscores MFIs commitment to promoting financial inclusion and empowering individuals, particularly those in underserved communities, by providing them with access to essential banking services.
- Grameen Bank: As of June 2025, Grameen Bank extends its financial services to an impressive clientele, with 10.72 million individuals in Bangladesh benefiting from its offerings. The borrowers' number reaches to 7.27 million and the loan disbursement raises to BDT 248.03 billion while the loan outstanding stands at BDT 168.00 billion.
- Government departments/ Institutions: government departments/institutions operate small-scale microfinance programs to accomplish specific organizational goals. During the fiscal year 2024-2025, data reported to MRA indicates that these 13 government entities collectively provided microfinance services to an impressive 16.67 million members in which 5.09 million (30.53%) are borrowers. The loan disbursement rises to BDT 83.13 billion while the loan outstanding stands at BDT 133.92 billion. This underscores the diverse and multifaceted nature of microfinance efforts in Bangladesh, with government agencies actively contributing to the broader mission of financial inclusion and poverty alleviation.
- Banks: State-owned commercial banks (SOCBs), private commercial banks (PCBs), and specialized banks, such as Sonali Bank PLC, Janata Bank PLC, Islami Bank Bangladesh PLC, and Bangladesh Krishi Bank, provide direct microfinance services to the impoverished individuals. These banks provided microfinance services to 5.33 million people during fiscal year 2024-2025. As of June 30, 2025, a total of 18 banks had diligently submitted their reports on their microfinance activities for the fiscal year 2024-2025 to MRA.

The microfinance sector in Bangladesh demonstrates a robust and multifaceted framework, significantly contributing to financial inclusion and poverty alleviation. With oversight from the MRA, diverse participants—including MFIs, Grameen Bank, banks, and government programs serve millions of individuals nationwide. In fiscal year 2024-2025, these entities impacted millions of people, fostering entrepreneurship, employment, and social development.

Comparison among MFIs and others

1.3 Basic Information of Microfinance Sector

The microfinance sector in Bangladesh has a dual impact, both at the macro and microeconomic levels, with the ultimate objective of poverty alleviation. In the fiscal year 2024-2025, the data reveals significant financial dynamics. A total of BDT 3189.20 billion was disbursed as microcredit and microenterprise loans, injecting a substantial amount of capital into the economy. This capital infusion has the potential to stimulate economic growth by providing individuals and microenterprises with the financial resources they need to invest in businesses and create employment opportunities.

The sector's reach is impressive, with 76.70 million members and 46.74 million borrowers benefiting from these financial services. This not only enhances financial inclusion but also contributes to increased consumer spending and economic activity. Moreover, 4.7% growth in the number of borrowers within MFIs demonstrates the resilience and expansion capabilities of the sector, furthering its role in economic development.

Gender inclusivity is a notable feature, with approximately 90% of members in MFIs being women. Beyond its social significance, this gender inclusivity has economic implications as well, as empowering women economically can have a positive multiplier effect on household income and overall economic well-being.

MFIs covering a vast population showcase a significant achievement in terms of financial inclusion. It implies that a substantial portion of the population now has access to financial services that can help improve their livelihoods.

In addition to the extensive microfinance sector in Bangladesh, several other noteworthy microcredit programs contribute significantly to the nation's economic landscape. These programs include the Grameen Bank, which disbursed loans amounting to BDT 248.03 billion, banks disbursing BDT 87.65 billion, Palli Sanchay Bank with a disbursement of BDT 49.92 billion, and BRDB, which disbursed BDT 14.92 billion. These diverse initiatives have a direct and profound impact on the lives of people by providing them with a vital source of working capital.

1.4 Members of Microfinance Sector over the years

The microfinance sector has exhibited sustained growth and increasing outreach between 2020-2021 and 2024-2025. Microfinance Institutions (MFIs) have consistently dominated the sector, expanding their client base from 35.02 million in 2020-2021 to 43.98 million in 2024-2025. This steady expansion reflects the growing reliance of underserved populations on MFI-led financial services and highlights the sector's resilience over the period.

Grameen Bank has also demonstrated moderate yet stable growth, with its membership increasing from 9.38 million in 2020-2021 to 10.72 million in 2024-2025, indicating continued confidence in its microfinance model.

In addition to MFIs and Grameen Bank, other institutional actors play a significant role in the microfinance landscape. In 2024-2025, government departments and institutions served 16.67 million members, while banks accounted for 5.33 million microfinance members. But it is noteworthy that from 2021 some government institutions like department of social welfare, Palli Sanchay Bank were newly included as data provider in the NDB, resulting in significant changes in member's number for govt. dept/institutions. However, all these providers brought the total number of microfinance members to 76.70 million in 2024-2025, underscoring both the expanding scale and the diversified institutional structure of the microfinance sector.

Graph 1.2: Members of Microfinance Sector over the years

1.5 Borrowers of Microfinance Sector over the years

These trends highlight the sector's evolving dynamics, with MFIs leading the charge, government agencies benefitting from improved data practices, and banks emerging as a growing player in the microfinance ecosystem.

The trend in borrowers in Bangladesh's microfinance sector from 2020-2021 to 2024-2025 indicates sustained growth alongside notable shifts across institutional segments. Microfinance Institutions (MFIs) have remained the dominant providers, with borrower numbers rising from 27.80 million in 2020-2021 to 33.68 million in 2025, reflecting continued expansion in outreach and strong demand for MFI-led credit services. Similarly, Grameen Bank experienced a gradual growth in its borrower base during the period, rising from 6.54 million in 2020-2021 to 7.27 million in 2024-2025, suggesting a relative hold in its share of total microfinance borrowers.

Graph 1.3: Borrowers of Microfinance Sector over the years

Government departments and institutions recorded a sharp increase in borrowers in the early part of the period, followed by a subsequent decline, with borrower numbers standing at 5.09 million in 2024-2025, indicating a contraction in public-sector microcredit operations. Banks participating in the microfinance segment, while accounting for a relatively small share, showed variability over time and served 0.70 million borrowers in 2024-2025. Overall, total borrowers in the microfinance sector reached 46.74 million in 2024-2025, underscoring the sector's continued significance in expanding access to credit while reflecting evolving roles among different categories of providers.

1.6 Loan Outstanding of Microfinance Sector over the years

The loan outstanding in Bangladesh's microfinance sector has shown sustained expansion from 2020–2021 to 2024–2025, led predominantly by Microfinance Institutions (MFIs). During this period, MFIs' loan outstanding rose sharply from BDT 949.9 billion to BDT 1,748.8 billion, reflecting an increase of nearly 84 percent over five years. In contrast, Grameen Bank demonstrated relatively modest but stable growth. Its loan outstanding increased from BDT 142.6 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 168.0 billion in 2024–2025, indicating a gradual expansion of its lending portfolio.

Government departments and institutions demonstrated strong growth in loan outstanding, increasing from BDT 28.58 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 133.92 billion in 2024–2025. Despite some fluctuations during the period, the overall trend remained significantly higher than the base year. This reflects the sustained role of government-supported programs in expanding financial inclusion and supporting socio-economic development initiatives.

The bank-led microfinance segment also expanded during the period, increasing from BDT 62.31 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 84.24 billion in 2024–2025, despite a slight contraction in the final year. Overall, the data indicate a clear structural shift in Bangladesh's microfinance sector, with MFIs consolidating their dominance, Grameen Bank maintaining stability, and banks and government institutions playing supportive but secondary roles in the sector's evolving credit landscape.

Graph 1.4: Loan Outstanding of Microfinance Sector over the years

1.7 Savings of Microfinance Sector over the years

Savings mobilization in Bangladesh's microfinance sector has expanded steadily from 2020–2021 to 2024–2025, with Microfinance Institutions (MFIs) playing the most dominant role. Savings held by MFIs increased from BDT 422.4 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 799.32 billion in 2024–2025, reflecting an overall growth of nearly 89 percent. The upward trend was consistent throughout the period, with particularly strong growth after 2021–2022, indicating rising depositor confidence and the expanding outreach of MFIs in mobilizing small-scale savings under the MRA regulatory framework.

Grameen Bank continued to remain a major repository of microfinance savings, although its growth pattern was comparatively stable rather than rapidly expanding. Savings increased from BDT 158.8 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 232.42 billion in 2024–2025. After a sharp rise in 2021–2022, savings volumes slightly declined and then stabilized, suggesting a mature savings base with limited volatility. Despite slower growth relative to MFIs, Grameen Bank's sustained savings level underscores its long-standing trust among depositors and its continued relevance in the sector.

Graph 1.5: Savings of Microfinance Sector over the years

Savings under government departments and institutions showed notable volatility, rising sharply in 2021–2022 before declining and gradually stabilizing at BDT 44.61 billion in 2024–2025, reflecting the policy-driven and episodic nature of such programs. In contrast, banks' microfinance savings exhibited steady and accelerated growth, increasing from BDT 12.54 billion to BDT 29.21 billion over the period. Although banks account for a relatively small share of total microfinance savings, their rising trend indicates increasing engagement in deposit mobilization within the microfinance segment. Overall, the data highlight MFIs as the principal drivers of savings growth, complemented by stable contributions from Grameen Bank and gradually expanding participation from banks.

Loan disbursement in Bangladesh's microfinance sector expanded markedly from 2020–2021 to 2024–2025, with Microfinance Institutions (MFIs)

1.8 Loan Disbursement of Microfinance Sector over the years

continuing to dominate overall lending activity. MFI loan disbursement increased from BDT 1,512 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 2,770.38 billion in 2024–2025, reflecting strong and sustained growth over the period. The sharp acceleration between 2021–2022 and 2022–2023 indicates heightened credit demand and expanded operational capacity of MFIs, followed by steady scaling in subsequent years. This pattern reinforces the central role of MFIs as the primary channel for microcredit delivery.

Grameen Bank recorded moderate but stable growth in loan disbursement. Its disbursement volume rose from BDT 195.5 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 248.03 billion in 2024–2025. After a notable increase in 2022–2023, disbursement levels stabilized, suggesting a mature lending portfolio with controlled expansion. While Grameen Bank's share of total disbursement remains smaller than that of MFIs, its consistent lending activity continues to support core microfinance clients and reinforces its long-standing institutional presence.

Graph 1.6: Loan Disbursement of Microfinance Sector over the years

Loan disbursement by government departments and institutions displayed a fluctuating trend, increasing sharply in 2021–2022 before declining and settling at BDT 83.13 billion in 2024–2025, reflecting the programmatic and policy-driven nature of government credit initiatives. In contrast, banks' microfinance disbursement expanded significantly, rising from BDT 31.57 billion in 2020–2021 to BDT 87.65 billion in 2024–2025. Despite remaining a relatively small segment, banks demonstrated increasing engagement in microfinance lending, particularly in the latter years, contributing to a more diversified microfinance credit landscape.

1.9 Comparison between MFIs and Grameen Bank

The comparison between MFIs and Grameen Bank reveals notable differences in operational focus and outcomes, particularly in the ratios of loan disbursement, outstanding amounts, and savings. MFIs, comprising 693 institutions, have a far greater scale, serving 43.98 million members and 33.68 million borrowers, resulting in loan disbursements totaling 2,770.38 billion BDT and loan outstanding amounts of 1,748.8 billion BDT—both over 11 times higher than Grameen Bank's figures. Grameen Bank, on the other hand, has 10.72 million members and 7.27 million borrowers, with loan disbursement of 248.03 billion BDT and loan outstanding of 168 billion BDT. This disparity highlights the extensive reach and aggregate financial capacity of the MRA-regulated microfinance network.

While MFIs dominate in loan disbursements and outstanding amounts, Grameen Bank exhibits strong competitiveness in savings mobilization, with 232.42 billion BDT, which constitutes almost one quarter of the total savings accumulated by both MFIs and Grameen Bank. The difference in savings mobilization between MFIs and Grameen Bank can be partly attributed to regulatory constraints: MFIs are subject to a cap on savings, with voluntary savings limited to 40% of their capital and compulsory savings capped at 50%, limiting their ability to accumulate larger amounts of member savings despite their wide reach. In contrast, Grameen Bank operates without such caps, allowing greater flexibility in mobilizing both voluntary and compulsory savings.

These differences reflect the distinct operational priorities of the two systems: MFIs focus on broader loan disbursement and financial outreach, accounting for the bulk of sectoral lending and portfolio size, while Grameen Bank emphasizes savings depth and intensity, positioning itself as a highly effective institution in savings mobilization despite its smaller scale. Overall, MFIs drive volume and outreach, whereas Grameen Bank delivers strategic depth in member financial engagement.

Graph 1.7: MFIs and Grameen Bank in different Parameters

1.10 Financial Inclusion and Microfinance in Bangladesh

The limitations of the formal financial market to cater to the needs of the poor led the MFIs to operate specifically in the rural areas, since the 1970s. These initiatives included the provision of credit to the poor and other development inputs. Over the years, the microfinance sector has expanded rapidly in Bangladesh, in terms of the number of microfinance NGOs (MF-NGOs), number of branches and active membership. There was no formal regulatory framework for the MFIs until 2006. The government established MRA in 2006 to bring transparency and accountability, and to enhance the efficiency of the MFI operations in the country. With the limited role of formal banks, higher access to financial services especially by the poor in the rural areas has largely been achieved through the deepening of microfinance operations in the country.

The philosophy of financial inclusion in Bangladesh is to support the government and the financial service providers for ensuring the delivery of a wide portfolio of financial services, to meet the varied needs of the unserved and underserved populations and enterprises in the country in a way that improves welfare, delivers value to them, and contributes to the sustainable growth of the financial sector and the overall economy. (National Financial Inclusion Strategy- Bangladesh (NFIS-B), 2021, P. 14).

As of June 2025, 693 MFIs with their 27,113 branches covering the entire nation and serving 43.98 members of which 90% are women. Loan disbursement and Loan outstanding per borrower is 82,251 tk and 51,921 tk respectively.

Table 1.2: Financial Inclusion by Microfinance

MRA's response for financial Inclusion

- The establishment of National Database of Microfinance stands as a testament to MRA's commitment to data-driven governance. Through this system, MFIs can easily submit their Operational and financial data in monthly, half-yearly and yearly basis. Thereby, authority can present a uniform and authentic overview of the microfinance sector.
- The introduction of a Web-Based Digital Map represents an innovative stride towards financial inclusion. By meticulously cataloging the geographical and demographic attributes of MFIs, including their physical locations, latitude, longitude, and contact details, this digital platform empowers individuals to easily locate and engage with these financial entities.
- Like banking sector, with the Technical support of Bangladesh Bank, MRA is establishing a Credit Information Bureau (CIB) for the microfinance sector. Now, the authority's CIB section is running pilot phase with 100 MFIs including big and small which submitted over 1 crore members data after cross-checked with NID database.
- An online monitoring system has been established to ensure transparency in the sector.

2.1 Loan Performance of MFIs

The loan performance of Bangladesh's microfinance sector remained robust through FY2025, reflecting sustained credit expansion despite recent macroeconomic and operational pressures. Between FY2015 and FY2025, loan disbursement increased from BDT 634 billion to BDT 2,770.38 billion, while loan outstanding rose from BDT 352 billion to BDT 1,748.80 billion, indicating strong long-term portfolio growth. Over this period, loan outstanding expanded faster than disbursement, suggesting gradual portfolio deepening through larger loan sizes and longer repayment cycles, while showing signs of weakening portfolio quality.

Graph 2.1: Year-Wise Loan Disbursement and Loan Outstanding (2015-2025) – (in BDT Billion)

The COVID-19 shock is clearly visible in FY2020, when loan disbursement declined to BDT 1,362.75 billion from BDT 1,403.20 billion in FY2019, reflecting temporary demand contraction and operational constraints. However, the sector demonstrated strong resilience, with disbursement rebounding sharply from FY2021 onward and reaching BDT 2,770.38 billion in FY2025. This post-pandemic recovery phase underscores the adaptive capacity of MFIs in restoring credit flows to households and microenterprises.

Growth momentum moderated slightly in FY2024–FY2025 compared to the immediate rebound years, indicating a shift from recovery-driven expansion to more measured and consolidation-oriented growth. Meanwhile, the steady rise in loan outstanding from BDT 1,504.18 billion in FY2023 to BDT 1,748.80 billion in FY2025 signals continued balance-sheet expansion, albeit at a pace that warrants close attention to portfolio quality and borrower repayment capacity.

The observed trends suggest a structurally resilient microfinance sector with sustained credit demand and expanding intermediation capacity. Going forward, maintaining growth while safeguarding credit discipline and managing post-crisis indebtedness risks will be critical for preserving the sector's financial stability.

Per-borrower loan indicators show a clear deepening of credit intensity in the microfinance sector. Between FY2015 and FY2025, average loan disbursement per borrower increased from BDT 31,155 to BDT 82,251, while average loan outstanding per borrower rose from BDT 17,317 to BDT 51,921, indicating a sustained shift towards larger loan sizes.

During the COVID-19 period, growth in per-borrower lending slowed but did not reverse, suggesting that MFIs prioritized supporting existing borrowers over rapid client expansion. The post-pandemic acceleration from FY2022 onward reflects renewed demand and increased repeat lending to relatively established clients.

The rising per-borrower loan amounts point to deeper financial engagement and higher credit exposure per client. While this may signal improved borrower capacity and creditworthiness, it also underscores the importance of monitoring leverage and over-indebtedness risks within the broader loan performance framework.

2.2 Loan Loss Provision of MFIs

Loan classification data for FY2024–25 point to a measurable deterioration in asset quality within the microfinance sector, reflecting rising borrower stress under a tightening macroeconomic environment. Out of the total loan outstanding of BDT 1,748.80 billion, good loans amounted to BDT 1,445.11 billion (82.63 percent), while watchful loans stood at BDT 154.75 billion (8.85 percent). Classified loans, comprising sub-standard, doubtful, and bad loans, totalled BDT 148.93 billion, accounting for 8.52 percent of the portfolio.

A comparison with FY2023–24 reveals a clear downward shift in portfolio quality. Loans overdue by more than 30 days are classified as non-performing loans (NPLs) and are categorized as Substandard (31–180 days overdue), Doubtful (181–365 days overdue), and Bad (more than 365 days overdue). In the previous year, non-performing loans accounted for 8.09 percent of total outstanding, whereas in FY2024–25, classified loans alone reached 8.52 percent, excluding the watchful category. At the same time, the share of good loans declined, while watchful loans increased sharply, indicating that repayment stress is increasingly concentrated in the early delinquency stage.

Graph 2.3: Share of Consolidated Loan Loss provision (LLP) as of June 2025

Within the non-performing loan portfolio, Bad loans constituted the largest share at 55.2 percent, amounting to BDT 82.21 billion or 4.70 percent of total outstanding loans. Doubtful loans accounted for 23.3 percent of classified loans (BDT 34.72 billion, 1.99 percent of total outstanding), while Substandard loans represented 21.5 percent (BDT 32.00 billion, 1.83 percent of total outstanding).

Compared with FY2023–24, when Substandard, Doubtful, and Bad/Loss loans accounted for 2.46 percent, 2.10 percent, and 3.53 percent of total outstanding loans, respectively, the latest data indicate a decline in the shares of Substandard and Doubtful loans but a notable increase in Bad loans, suggesting a continued accumulation of severely delinquent loans within the sector.

Graph 2.4: Percentage Distribution of Classified Loans by Classification Category as of June 2025.

The sharp increase in watchful loans from 1.12 percent in FY2023–24 to 8.85 percent in FY2024–25 is particularly noteworthy. Loans overdue by up to 30 days often serve as a leading indicator of future non-performance. If macroeconomic pressures persist, a portion of these watchful loans may migrate into classified categories, exerting further pressure on provisioning requirements and capital buffers. This near eightfold surge signals a structural break in borrower debt-servicing capacity, aligning with the observed deceleration in fresh loan disbursements for FY2025. This indicates that Microfinance Institutions (MFIs) are shifting from credit expansion to defensive risk management.

| Categories             | Specification                     | Amount(Billion BDT) | %       |

*Classified loan (Non Performing Loan)

Table 2.1: Consolidated Loan Loss provision (LLP) as of June 2025

Graph 2.5: Percentages of Non-performing loan & Regular Loan as of June 2025

Several factors likely contributed to this deterioration. Persistent inflation, rising food and energy prices, climate-related shocks affecting agricultural incomes, and slower real income growth have constrained borrowers' repayment capacity. In addition, the sustained rise in average loan size per borrower has increased exposure per client, amplifying loss severity when repayment difficulties arise.

Overall, the FY2024–25 loan loss profile suggests that the sector is entering a phase of heightened credit risk, where asset quality pressures are becoming more pronounced but remain manageable. The data underscore the importance of timely provisioning, strengthened recovery efforts, and close monitoring of watchful accounts to prevent further deterioration and safeguard the financial stability of the microfinance sector.

2.3 Savings Mobilisation of MFIs

Savings mobilization by MFIs continued to strengthen through FY2025, reinforcing the sector's role in deposit intermediation alongside credit delivery. Total savings increased from BDT 496.24 billion in FY2022 to BDT 799.32 billion in FY2025, representing a cumulative growth of 61.1 percent over three years. This expansion reflects both widening depositor participation and a gradual shift towards longer-term savings instruments.

Compulsory savings remained the dominant component, rising steadily from BDT 258.98 billion in FY2022 to BDT 432.54 billion in FY2025. The growth trajectory moderated from 27.2 percent in FY2023 to 16.5 percent in FY2024 and 12.7 percent in FY2025, indicating continued but stabilizing reliance on mandatory savings linked to credit programs. This trend underscores MFIs' emphasis on using compulsory savings as a risk-mitigation and client-retention mechanism.

Voluntary savings exhibited notable volatility. After increasing from BDT 84.96 billion in FY2022 to BDT 106.56 billion in FY2023, voluntary deposits declined sharply to BDT 72.25 billion in FY2024, before recovering to BDT 84.49 billion in FY2025. This pattern suggests that voluntary savings were more affected by income uncertainty and inflationary pressures, while the recent increase may partly reflect renewed depositor confidence as well as the migration of balances across savings categories following changes in savings product structures by some MFIs.

In contrast, term savings recorded the strongest and most consistent growth, rising from BDT 152.30 billion in FY2022 to BDT 282.29 billion in FY2025. Growth accelerated in the post-pandemic period, reflecting increased preference for fixed-tenure instruments amid relatively attractive returns offered by MFIs. The rising share of term savings points to improving depositor confidence and longer maturity profiles in the sector's funding base.

Overall, the expansion of total savings was driven primarily by compulsory and term savings, which offset fluctuations in voluntary deposits. The FY2025 increase of 16.5 percent in total savings indicates a renewed strengthening of the deposit base, supporting liquidity and reducing dependence on external borrowing. Collectively, these trends highlight a more stable and diversified savings structure, enhancing the resilience of MFIs' funding framework.

2.4 Branch Performance of MFIs

Branch-level indicators point to steady productivity gains alongside measured network expansion in Bangladesh's microfinance sector. Between FY2023 and FY2025, the number of branches increased from 25,336 to 27,113, representing a growth of 7.01 percent. Over the same period, membership rose from 40.86 million to 43.97 million (7.61 percent), while the number of borrowers increased from 31.53 million to 33.68 million (6.82 percent). The growth in branch networks has therefore been broadly aligned with the expansion of members and borrowers, suggesting that institutional outreach has been driven primarily by growing demand for microfinance services rather than by the creation of excess operational capacity.

Graph 2.7: Saving and Loan Outstanding Per Branch (June 2015- June 2025)

Productivity per branch improved markedly. Savings per branch rose from BDT 24.60 million in FY2023 to BDT 26.31 million in FY2024 (6.94 percent) and further to BDT 29.48 million in FY2025(12.04 percent), indicating stronger deposit mobilization capacity at the branch level. Over the longer horizon, savings per branch more than tripled from BDT 8.68 million in FY2015, reflecting both deeper client engagement and rising average savings balances.

| Particulars/ Year                         | 2015  | 2016  | 2017  | 2018  | 2019  | 2020  | 2021  | 2022  | 2023  | 2024  | 2025  |
|-------------------------------------------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|-------|
| Saving Per Branch (million BDT)           | 8.68  | 10.51 | 12.66 | 15.36 | 16.13 | 17.97 | 20.15 | 21.07 | 24.60 | 26.31 | 29.48 |
| Loan Outstanding Per Branch (million BDT) | 22.58 | 28.21 | 34.11 | 39.36 | 41.5  | 42.64 | 45.32 | 52.73 | 59.63 | 61.14 | 64.50 |

Table 2.2: Saving and Loan Outstanding Per Branch (June 2015- June 2025)

Similarly, loan outstanding per branch increased from BDT 59.63 million in FY2023 to BDT 61.14 million in FY2024 (2.53 percent) and reached BDT 64.50 million in FY2025(5.49 percent). The sustained upward trend since FY2015 (BDT 22.58 million) points to portfolio deepening and improved operational scale, even as branch growth remained moderate.

Overall, the data indicate that MFIs are extracting higher productivity from existing branches, rather than relying solely on rapid physical expansion. This pattern reflects a gradual shift towards operational consolidation and efficiency-led growth, strengthening branch viability while supporting continued outreach expansion.

2.5 Microenterprise Loan (ME Loan) of MFIs

Microenterprise (ME) lending continues to represent a strategically important and highly concentrated segment of Bangladesh's microfinance sector, reflecting a gradual shift from subsistence microcredit towards enterprise-oriented financing.

Graph 2.8: Microenterprise (ME) Loan disbursement vs Microcredit Loan Disbursement (June, 2025)

The disbursement composition in FY2025 shows that Microenterprise (ME) loans accounted for approximately 40 percent of total combined ME and microcredit disbursement, amounting to BDT 1,106.03 billion, while traditional microcredit loans comprised around 60 percent, totaling BDT 1,664.35 billion.

Compared to the previous year's distribution of 38 percent (ME) versus 62 percent (microcredit), this reflects a marginal increase in the share of enterprise lending. The gradual rise in ME share suggests a continued structural shift toward larger, income-generating loan products, although conventional microcredit remains the dominant financing modality within the sector.

Graph 2.9: Comparison of BRAC, ASA and Other Top 20 MFIs in ME Portfolio

As of June 2025, the Top 20 MFIs served 4.14 million ME borrowers, with ME loan disbursement amounting to BDT 810.67 billion and ME loan outstanding totaling BDT 570.96 billion. The total loan outstanding of these institutions stood at BDT 1,310.76 billion, underscoring the growing weight of enterprise lending within overall MFI portfolios.

The concentration of ME lending is particularly pronounced among the largest institutions. BRAC alone accounted for BDT 213.31 billion in ME loan outstanding, representing 37.36 percent of total ME loan outstanding among the Top 20 MFIs. ME loans also constituted a substantial share of BRAC's own portfolio, accounting for 49.62 percent of its total loan outstanding (BDT 429.93 billion). This highlights

BRAC's strong strategic emphasis on enterprise lending and its dominant influence on sector-wide ME loan dynamics.

ASA emerged as the second-largest ME lender, with BDT 87.50 billion in ME loan outstanding, accounting for 15.33 percent of the Top 20 MFIs' ME portfolio. ME loans represented 31.98 percent of ASA's total loan outstanding (BDT 273.57 billion), indicating a more balanced portfolio structure compared to BRAC but still a significant exposure to enterprise financing. Combined, BRAC and ASA accounted for over 53 percent of total ME loan outstanding among the Top 20 MFIs, underscoring the high degree of market concentration.

Table 2.3: Microenterprise loan share of Top 20 MFIs as of June 2025

Beyond the two leading MFIs, a second tier of institutions including TMSS, Jagorani Chakra Foundation, Society for Social Service, and Sajida Foundation collectively contributed a sizeable but fragmented share of ME lending. Notably, Jagorani Chakra Foundation exhibited a high ratio of ME loan outstanding relative to its total loan portfolio, suggesting a specialised focus on microenterprise financing. In contrast, some MFIs displayed high ME loan disbursement but relatively lower outstanding balances, reflecting shorter loan tenures or faster portfolio turnover, particularly in seasonal or working-capital-driven enterprise activities.

The scale and composition of ME lending point to a structural deepening of credit exposure per borrower, consistent with rising average loan sizes across the sector. While this transition supports business expansion, employment creation, and income diversification, it also elevates credit concentration and loss severity risks, especially given the macroeconomic pressures affecting small enterprises.

Graph 2.10: Microenterprise loan Outstanding of Top 20 MFIs as of June 2025

Overall, the FY2025 ME loan profile suggests that enterprise-oriented lending is increasingly shaping the growth trajectory of the microfinance sector, led overwhelmingly by a small number of large MFIs. Sustaining this momentum will require strong enterprise credit appraisal, sectoral diversification, and enhanced monitoring of ME loan performance to balance developmental impact with financial stability.

2.6 Microfinance in Agriculture

Microfinance continues to play a central role in financing Bangladesh's agricultural sector, particularly for marginal and smallholder farmers who face limited access to formal banking credit. As of June 2025, MFIs disbursed BDT 1,380.21 billion in agricultural loans, accounting for approximately 50 percent of the total loan disbursement of BDT 2,770.38 billion. This reflects a continuation of the long-term growth trend in agricultural lending, which increased sharply over the past decade, reaching BDT 1,301.46 billion in FY2024 from BDT 266.25 billion in FY2015. The expansion broadly mirrors the growth in total microfinance loan disbursement, indicating that agriculture has maintained a consistently significant share of overall MFI credit rather than being crowded out by non-farm activities.

Consequently, In June 2025, the total agricultural loan outstanding of MFIs reached BDT 863.80 billion, reflecting a substantial expansion from BDT 762.53 billion in June 2024, equivalent to an annual growth of around 13.3 percent. This growth indicates sustained credit demand in agriculture despite climatic risks and rising input costs.

Graph 2.12: Agricultural loan disbursement to Total Loan disbursement as of June 2025

The composition of agricultural loans remains broadly stable, with a clear dominance of crop-related financing. In FY2025, crop loans accounted for BDT 549.55 billion (63.62 percent) of total agricultural loan outstanding, followed by livestock loans at BDT 246.70 billion (28.56 percent) and fisheries loans at BDT 67.55 billion (7.82 percent). Compared to FY2024, the relative share of crops declined marginally, while livestock and fisheries gained modestly, suggesting a gradual diversification within agricultural portfolios, likely reflecting shifts towards higher-value and income-smoothing activities.

Table 2.4: Agriculture Loan Outstanding in sub categories as of June 2025

For the Top 20 MFIs, agricultural microfinance remains highly concentrated among a few large institutions. As of June 2025, these MFIs served 13.57 million agricultural borrowers, disbursed BDT 1,025.36 billion, and maintained an outstanding agricultural loan portfolio of BDT 626.84 billion. BRAC was the largest provider, serving 4.26 million borrowers and accounting for 31.8 percent of agricultural loan disbursement and 29.3 percent of outstanding agricultural loans. ASA followed with 24.0 percent of borrowers, 21.2 percent of disbursement, and 20.6 percent of outstanding loans. Together, BRAC and ASA accounted for 53.0 percent of total agricultural loan disbursement and 49.9 percent of the outstanding portfolio among the Top 20 MFIs, highlighting their dominant role in agricultural finance.

The distribution of borrowers, disbursement, and outstanding loans also reveals notable differences in lending patterns across institutions. While TMSS accounted for 7.7 percent of borrowers, its shares of disbursement (6.5 percent) and outstanding loans (6.4 percent) were relatively proportional. In contrast, Jagorani Chakra Foundation served only 3.3 percent of borrowers but accounted for 5.1 percent of disbursement and 6.7 percent of outstanding loans, indicating comparatively larger loan sizes and stronger engagement in capital-intensive agricultural activities. Similarly, Padakkhep and RIC recorded higher shares of disbursement and outstanding loans relative to their borrower shares. On the other hand, institutions such as DSK and RDRS Bangladesh served relatively larger numbers of borrowers compared to their shares of loan disbursement, suggesting smaller average loan sizes and a stronger focus on reaching a broader base of agricultural clients.

Graph 2.13: Year –wise Agriculture Loan disbursement and total Loan disbursement in Microfinance Sector (As of June 2025)

Overall, the FY2025 data indicate that agricultural microfinance is expanding both in scale and diversity. While crop financing continues to dominate, the rising share of livestock and fisheries points to gradual portfolio diversification and value-chain engagement. However, the strong concentration of agricultural lending among a few large MFIs also implies that sector-wide resilience to climate and price shocks depends heavily on the risk management practices of these institutions. Ensuring timely credit delivery, adequate insurance linkages, and close monitoring of agricultural loan performance will be critical for sustaining food security and rural livelihoods.

2.7 Asset Structure of the Microfinance Sector

The asset base of the microfinance sector expanded significantly in FY2024–25, with total properties and assets reaching BDT 2,183,701.70 million, compared to BDT 1,958,336 million in the previous year an increase of approximately 11.51 percent. This growth reflects continued balance sheet expansion, consistent with the rise in loan portfolios and savings mobilisation.

As in previous years, the asset structure remains strongly loan-centric. Loans to Members amounted to BDT 1,748,802.08 million, accounting for approximately 80.1 percent of total assets. Although this share declined slightly from the previous year's 81.4 percent, the absolute volume increased substantially, underscoring continued commitment to core microcredit operations while gradually diversifying asset allocation.

Graph 2.14: Asset Distribution of Microfinance Sector (As of June 2025)

A notable shift is observed in short-term investments, which rose sharply to BDT 246,999.13 million, up from BDT 175,957 million in the previous year. This increase suggests a stronger emphasis on liquidity management and temporary fund placement, possibly reflecting prudent treasury strategies amid economic uncertainty. The rise in cash at bank BDT 67,905.13 million and cash in hand BDT 2,940.31 million further reinforces an improved liquidity buffer, supporting operational resilience and depositor confidence.

Property, Plant and Equipment BDT 46,151.85 million also increased, indicating infrastructure expansion. Meanwhile, advances, deposits, and prepayments BDT 41,050.00 million and accounts receivable BDT 11,620.19 million represent manageable working capital components relative to the overall asset base.

The presence of inter-MFI lending long and short term combined BDT 973.34 million and other loan exposures remains marginal, suggesting limited cross-institutional risk concentration.

Overall, the FY2025 asset structure reflects a maturing and more diversified balance sheet, where loan dominance remains strong but is increasingly complemented by higher short-term investments and liquidity reserves. This evolution indicates enhanced financial management capacity, improved liquidity planning, and a balanced approach between credit expansion and risk containment.

2.8 Fund and Liability Structure of the Microfinance Sector

The liability structure of the microfinance sector in FY2024–25 reflects continued balance sheet expansion alongside a strengthening of internally mobilized resources. Based on the updated figures, total liabilities and capital components increased in line with asset growth, maintaining structural stability.

Members' Savings Deposits remain the single largest liability component, amounting to BDT 799,324.42 million, accounting for approximately 37 percent of total liabilities. This marks a continued increase from the previous year (BDT 685,935.77 million), reinforcing the sector's strong dependence on member-based funding and a savings-led financing model. The rising share of deposits indicates sustained depositor confidence and enhanced liquidity resilience.

Cumulative Surplus (retained earnings) rose to BDT 677,902.20 million, maintaining a substantial share of the liability base at roughly one-third of total funding. The steady accumulation of surplus reflects improved operational sustainability and reduced reliance on volatile external grants, underscoring the maturing financial profile of the sector.

Among institutional borrowings, Loans from Commercial Banks (Long Term) stood at BDT 220,490.67 million, showing a decline in relative importance compared to earlier years. Similarly, Loans from PKSf increased to BDT 138,733.59 million, highlighting the continued role of concessional and quasi-development financing in supporting sectoral expansion.

Other borrowings include Loans from Other-Long Term (BDT 57,659.15 million), Loan from Other Government Sources (BDT 4,320.61 million), Loans from Other Micro Credit Organizations (BDT 9,244.15 million), and Housing Fund Loans (BDT 1,290.04 million). While these components remain modest in share, they contribute to diversification within the borrowing structure.

Graph 2.15: Distribution of Liabilities of Microfinance Sector

(As of June 2025)

Loan Loss Provision increased significantly to BDT 119,372.52 million, representing approximately 5.47 percent of total liabilities, 0.8 percent up from the previous year. This rise aligns with the observed increase in classified loans and reflects strengthened provisioning buffers to absorb potential credit losses. Meanwhile, Account Payables amounted to BDT 63,305.67 million (around 3 percent), remaining within manageable operational levels.

Other's Fund (BDT 88,300.22 million) and Donor Fund (BDT 3,758.47 million) constitute relatively small shares, with donor contributions continuing to decline in structural importance, reinforcing the transition toward a self-sustaining funding framework.

Overall, the FY2025 liability composition demonstrates a savings-driven and surplus-supported financing model, with declining dependence on commercial bank borrowing and minimal reliance on donor funding. The strengthened provisioning position and diversified borrowing mix indicate prudent financial management, although maintaining depositor confidence and managing maturity mismatches remain critical as the balance sheet continues to expand.

2.9 Fund Composition of the Microfinance Sector in Bangladesh

The fund composition of Bangladesh's microfinance sector has undergone a clear structural transformation over the last decade, marked by rising scale, increasing internal resource mobilization, and a gradual decline in reliance on commercial borrowing. Total funds increased from BDT 527,684 million in June 2016 to BDT 1,994,889 million in June 2025, representing around fourfold expansion of the sector's balance sheet.

Graph 2.16: Sources of Funds of MFIs in Bangladesh as of June 2025

A defining feature of this evolution is the growing dominance of client savings as the primary funding source. Client savings increased from BDT 170,670 million (32.34 percent) in June 2016 to BDT 799,324 million (40.07 percent) in June 2025. The steady rise in both absolute value and share indicate deepening depositor confidence, broader savings mobilization, and strengthened liquidity buffers. This trend aligns closely with the observed growth in compulsory and term savings and reflects MFIs' increasing ability to intermediate household savings into productive lending.

Cumulative surplus (retained earnings) has remained the second-largest source of funds, growing from BDT 168,296 million in June 2016 to BDT 677,897 million in June 2025. Although its share moderated slightly in recent years, it consistently accounted for around one-third of total funds (33.98 percent in June 2025). This sustained accumulation of surplus underscores improved operational sustainability and reduced dependence on external grants, signaling a maturing sector with stronger internal capital generation.

Table 2.6: Sources of funds of MFIs in Bangladesh (2016-2025)

In contrast, loans from commercial banks declined in relative importance. While commercial bank borrowing rose in nominal terms until June 2023, its share fell from 25.14 percent in June 2016 to 11.05 percent in June 2025, with outstanding bank loans decreasing from BDT 276,619 million in June 2023 to BDT 220,491 million in June 2025. This decline suggests a deliberate shift away from potentially volatile and higher-cost market borrowing, possibly reflecting tighter bank lending conditions, higher interest rates, and MFIs' preference for more stable funding sources.

Loans from PKSF showed steady and counter-cyclical growth, increasing from BDT 40,762 million (7.72percent) in June 2016 to BDT 138,734 million (6.95 percent) in June 2025. The relatively stable share of PKSF funding highlights its continued role as a concessional and stabilizing anchor for the sector, particularly during periods of macroeconomic stress.

Other funding sources, including government-origin loans, inter-MFI borrowing, and housing funds, remained marginal but expanded modestly after June 2024, together accounting for around 3.1 percent of total funds in June 2025. Donor funds, once a cornerstone of microfinance expansion, continued to decline in relative significance, accounting for just 0.19 percent of total funds in June 2025, reinforcing the sector's transition away from grant dependence.

Overall, the FY2025 fund composition reflects a more self-reliant and savings-led financing structure, with over 74 percent of total funds sourced from client savings and cumulative surplus combined. This shift enhances financial resilience and predictability but also places greater responsibility on MFIs to maintain depositor confidence, sound liquidity management, and strong governance. The declining reliance on commercial bank borrowing and donor funds suggests a structurally stronger sector, though continued vigilance is required to manage maturity mismatches and protect savers as balance sheets continue to expand.

3.1 Division wise Coverage of MFIs

A division-wise assessment of microfinance institutions (MFIs) across Bangladesh reveals a distinctly asymmetric distribution of outreach, portfolio concentration, and savings mobilization, reflecting both demographic density and economic centralization patterns.

| Division      | Number of Branches | %     | Number of Members | %     | Number of Borrowers | %     | Loan Outstanding  | %     | Savings Balance | %     |

Dhaka division clearly dominates the microfinance landscape, accounting for 26.52% of branches, while hosting nearly 26% of members and 24% of borrowers. More critically, it commands a disproportionately higher 28.89% of total loan outstanding and 29.33% of savings, indicating deeper financial intermediation and higher transaction volumes per client. This suggests that MFIs in Dhaka operate with relatively larger loan sizes and stronger savings mobilization capacity, likely driven by urban and peri-urban economic activity.

Chattogram division emerges as the second-largest hub, with 19.67% of branches and roughly 18–19% share across members and borrowers. However, its 22.56% share of loan outstanding and 20.98% savings indicate a more capital-intensive portfolio compared to its outreach share. This points to relatively higher loan sizes and stronger enterprise-oriented lending, consistent with Chattogram's commercial significance.

In contrast, Rajshahi and Rangpur divisions exhibit a different structural pattern. Rajshahi holds 16.56% of branches and maintains proportional shares in members (15.42%) and borrowers (16.48%), yet its loan outstanding share drops to 14.02%, suggesting relatively smaller loan sizes. Rangpur presents an even sharper divergence: despite 11.65% of members and 12.61% of borrowers, it accounts for only 9.64% of loan outstanding, indicating lower credit intensity per borrower—likely reflecting higher poverty incidence and smaller-scale borrowing needs.

Graph 3.2: Division wise number of members and Borrowers

Khulna division maintains a relatively balanced structure, with 13–14% shares across branches, members, and borrowers, though its loan outstanding (11.47%) and savings (11.15%) are somewhat lower. This implies moderate outreach but comparatively conservative financial depth.

The Barishal and Mymensingh divisions represent mid-to-lower tier markets in scale. Barishal's shares remain consistent across indicators (around 5–6%), though its savings share (6.34%) slightly exceeds loan share (5.17%), indicating relatively stronger deposit mobilization. Mymensingh shows a similar pattern but at a smaller scale, with all indicators clustered around 4–5%, reflecting limited but stable microfinance penetration.

Graph 3.3: Division wise loan outstanding and savings

Sylhet division records the lowest presence across all indicators, with only 3.19% of branches and under 4% share in members, borrowers, loans, and savings. This suggests comparatively limited MFI outreach and financial deepening, possibly influenced by alternative income sources such as remittances, which may reduce dependence on microcredit.

This spatial imbalance underscores the need for regionally differentiated policy approaches—enhancing credit depth in lagging regions while ensuring responsible scaling in high-concentration markets.

Social Development Activities of Microfinance Institutions (MFIs)

Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) emerged in Bangladesh with the primary objective of contributing to national reconstruction through diverse social initiatives. Over time, many of these organizations expanded their operational scope to include microfinance services, while continuing their longstanding commitment to delivering essential social services. Social services, in this context, refer to organized public and community-oriented interventions aimed at supporting disadvantaged and vulnerable segments of the population, thereby fostering social inclusion, resilience, equity, and improved quality of life.

Microfinance Institutions (MFIs) in Bangladesh have since evolved into multi-dimensional development actors. In addition to providing financial services, MFIs implement a wide range of social development programs, financed either from their internally generated surplus or through loans and grants received from development partners. These initiatives complement their core microfinance activities and contribute directly to national socio-economic development goals.

Major Areas of Social Intervention

MFIs extend social development services across a broad spectrum of sectors, including but not limited to:

1. Pre-primary and primary education, vocational and skills development training, secondary school management support, and scholarship programs.
2. Health sector interventions, such as medical and health camps, hospitals, diagnostic centers, and community health programs.
3. Disaster relief and rehabilitation initiatives, winter clothing distribution, support for persons with disabilities, and orphanage operations.
4. Agricultural support services, including guidance and assistance in crop production, fisheries, and livestock rearing.
5. Installation and repair of tube-wells and sanitary latrines to improve access to safe water and sanitation.
6. Rehabilitation programs for beggars and ultra-poor populations.
7. Awareness-raising campaigns on social, health, and environmental issues.
8. Promotion of sports and cultural activities.
9. Programs aimed at improving the quality of life of elderly citizens.
10. Vulnerable Group Development (VGD) programs.
11. MRA-MFI Higher Education Scholarship for students pursuing tertiary education in various public universities and medical colleges.

Regulatory Framework

In accordance with the guidelines of MRA, MFIs are permitted to allocate up to 20 percent of their cumulative surplus income for social development purposes, subject to prior approval. This regulatory provision ensures that social expenditures remain financially sustainable while allowing MFIs to play a proactive role in poverty alleviation and human development. Through these investments, MFIs make a substantial contribution to inclusive growth and the overall improvement of living standards across the country.

The social responsiveness of MFIs was particularly evident during national emergencies, most notably during the COVID-19 pandemic, when their relief, healthcare, and rehabilitation efforts were widely acknowledged and appreciated nationwide.

Table 4.1 - Social Development Expenditure: FY 2024–2025

In the financial year 2024–2025, Microfinance Institutions (MFIs in Bangladesh) sustained a robust level of engagement in social development activities. A total of 125 MFIs collectively expended BDT 8.42 billion on various social welfare and development programs. The expenditure pattern indicates a clear prioritization of education & healthcare, and donation & rehabilitation for vulnerable segment of the society.

Education and stipend-related initiatives constituted the largest share of social spending, with 61 MFIs allocating approximately BDT 2.46 billion, underscoring the continued emphasis on human capital formation and educational inclusion. Donation and rehabilitation activities, implemented by 111

MFIs, accounted for BDT 2.87 billion, reflecting strong institutional responsiveness to disaster relief, social protection, and rehabilitation of vulnerable groups.

Healthcare assistance, undertaken by 40 MFIs, amounted to nearly BDT 1.88 billion, demonstrating the sector's sustained contribution to community health services, including medical camps and healthcare support programs. Development activities, covering a range of community-oriented and capacity-building interventions, received BDT 242.6 million from 37 MFIs, while agricultural aid, provided by 38 MFIs, totaled BDT 94.4 million, supporting rural livelihoods, fisheries, and livestock-based income generation.

Graph-4.1: Social Development Expense FY 2024 - 2025

In addition, BDT 865.3 million was spent by 28 MFIs under miscellaneous social initiatives categorized as Others, highlighting the diversity and adaptability of MFI-led social interventions. Overall, the FY 2024–2025 expenditure profile reaffirms the pivotal role of MFIs as key contributors to inclusive social development, complementing their core microfinance operations with substantial investments in welfare-oriented and developmental programs.

The FY 2024–2025 data demonstrate that MFIs in Bangladesh remain deeply engaged in social development alongside their financial intermediation role. The scale of expenditure and the breadth of intervention areas indicate a balanced approach that addresses immediate humanitarian needs while investing in long-term human and social capital. By channeling significant portions of their surplus into education, healthcare, rehabilitation, and livelihood support, MFIs continue to act as critical partners in Bangladesh's pursuit of sustainable and inclusive development.

Chapter-7

Operating Cost Ratios of MFIs

Formulas

$$\text{Saving Cost Ratio (Per 100 BDT L.O.)} = \frac{\text{Interest on Savings}}{\text{Average Loan Outstanding}} \times 100$$

$$\text{Borrowing Cost Ratio (Per 100 BDT L.O.)} = \frac{\text{Interest on Loan}}{\text{Average Loan Outstanding}} \times 100$$

$$\text{General \& Admin Cost Ratio (Per 100 BDT L.O.)} = \frac{\text{General \& Admin Cost}}{\text{Average Loan Outstanding}} \times 100$$

Chapter-8

Risk Measuring Ratios of MFIs

Formulas

$$\text{Borrowing to Loan Outstanding Ratio} = \frac{\text{Total Borrowing}}{\text{Loan Outstanding}} \times 100$$

$$\text{Total Operating Cost to Total Income Ratio} = \frac{\text{Total Operating Cost}}{\text{Total Income}} \times 100$$

$$\text{Capital Fund to Loan Outstanding Ratio} = \frac{\text{Capital Fund}}{\text{Loan Outstanding}} \times 100$$

$$\text{Return on Asset (ROA)} = \frac{\text{Net Surplus}}{\text{Average Total Asset}} \times 100$$

$$\text{Operating Self Sufficiency (OSS)} = \frac{\text{Financial Income}}{\text{Financial Expenses} + \text{Loan Loss Provision} + \text{Operating Expenses}} \times 100$$

$$\text{Operating Margin} = \frac{\text{Net Surplus}}{\text{Service charge}} \times 100$$
